WEEK-END SPORT

Big Cricket Match On Club Ground

The cricket and football seasons are fast drawing to a close and soon too, there will be no more hockey until the next winter, but this week-end followers of these games will be well-provided for, and those who are keen enough to make the trip to Macao to-morrow are promised a rare treat when the annual Interport hockey match between Hong Kong and Macao comes off.

It is true that the Race Carnival is now a thing of the past, but race goers need have no qualms for there is the March meeting at Kwai to-morrow and this will be followed by the First Extra Race Meeting next Saturday and the Macao Meeting on the following Sunday.

The Shield and League football matches this afternoon will attract, as usual a large number of soccer fans while the seven-a-side Rugby tournament should also prove a good drawing card.

Cricket

(BY L.B.W.)

A match that cricket enthusiasts have been waiting a long time for comes off this afternoon when the Hong Kong Cricket Club meet the Indian Recreation Club on the former's ground. It will be the deciding match of the season for whoever wins will carry off the Senior League Championship, though the Indians can afford a draw, provided they follow this with a win, in their last match of the season, over the Kowloon Cricket Club two weeks hence.

Chances Discussed

Both sides will be at full strength and though the Club will have the advantage of playing at home, I feel that the Indians will just about do it, if they win the toss and send the home team in to bat first.

EXCHANGE EQUALISATION FUND TO DEFEND FRANC

FULL MARKET PRICE FOR GOLD SELLERS

PARIS, MARCH 5. A COMMUNIQUE ISSUED AT THE CONCLUSION OF THE CABINET MEETING REAFFIRMS THAT THE TRIPARTITE AGREEMENT REMAINS THE BASIS OF FRANCE'S MONETARY POLICY AND CONTROL OF EXCHANGES IS THEREFORE EXCLUDED.

Furthermore, the Bank of France from March 8 will buy gold at prevailing rate. The Government asks the Bank to give general authorisation of free import and free negotiation of gold internally.

A committee has been formed, including the Governor of the Bank of France, to administer the Exchange Equalisation Fund and take measures to assure the defence of the franc.

The significance of the franc commune is that sellers of gold will receive from Monday the full world market price instead of the pre-devaluation price which was later extended to 90 per cent. of the world price.

This device failed to attract holders, the Government being deprived of enormous profit from devaluation on which it counted.

The artificially low price of gold is supported by prohibition of gold exports through stringent control by the Customs, especially the Channel ports.

The committee supervising the Stabilisation Equalisation Fund is also empowered to supervise the Renten market.

The President, M. Lebrun, will be broadcasting to the nation at 7 p.m. on Sunday.

On behalf of the defence loan, a commune says that this will be the only public borrowing in the present year, the Treasury's needs being covered by short-term operations.

The bourse responded, to the Government's decision with considerable rise in prices.—Reuter.

CANTON ROWING CLUB

Centenary On March 14

The Canton Rowing Club have decided to hold a regatta on Sunday March 14, in order to celebrate the 100th anniversary of rowing in Canton. Invitations to take part were sent to Hong Kong, Manila and Shanghai but unfortunately only Hong Kong were in a position to accept. It is hoped, nevertheless, that the regatta will provide some of the best sporting entertainment that has been seen in Canton for some time.

ROYAL WELCH FUSILIERS' ST. DAVID'S BALL

Brilliant Ceremonial At Peninsula Hotel

UNIQUE TRADITION FEATURES SUCCESSFUL FUNCTION

It is difficult to imagine any more brilliant ceremonial than that which was witnessed in the Rose Room of the Peninsula Hotel last night, when, in the course of the Sergeants Mess, 2nd Battalion the Royal Welch Fusiliers' Annual St. David's Ball, the Regimental Colours were marched in, the Colour party comprising Sergt-Major Macey, C.Q.M.S. Price and C.Q.M.S. Green, all of whom wore full ceremonial dress with busby. The Colours were placed in the ball room near the band and a sentry, also in full dress, kept guard. The whole ceremony was magnificent and provided a treat so rarely seen in the Colony.

Listed as one of the Colony's leading social events of the winter season, the Ball surpassed all previous successes and the function last night will go down in the history of the Regiment as the most brilliant ever held. The members of the Sergeants' Mess Ball committee left no stone unturned, in their efforts to provide an evening packed with entertainment that was live and cheerful. A crowd of over 450 attended and all joined in the fun wholeheartedly.

The Rose Room was very tastefully decorated with balloons, festoons, and on either side of the band at the far end of the Rose Room was displayed the many handsome silver trophies won by the Regiment. The display was a feature that stood out on its own and included the Musketry Challenge Shield raised in 1839, another trophy dated 1886 and another 1894.

Lienyun Harbour Construction

Hsuehchow (By Mail): After being under construction for three years, the Lienyun Harbour at the eastern terminus of the Lung-Hai Railway has now been completed.

It is learned that preparations are being made by the railway authorities for its formal inauguration which will write a new chapter in the history of harbour development in China.

Known as the second biggest harbour in east China in the Scheme for National Reconstruction of the late Party leader Dr. Sun Yat-sen, it has an area of more than 10 sq. li. Bounded on three sides by land, Kaokung Isle on the east, Sun Chia Hill on the west, Yun Tai Hill on the south, the deep-water port affords an ideal anchorage for incoming and outgoing vessels.

The project of constructing the harbour was taken up by the National Government in 1928 when a survey of the place was conducted. However, owing to the then unsettled political situation, not much headway was made.

In December, 1931 the Lunghai Railway Administration, in view of the inadequate harbour facilities at Sinpu, Hsuehchow, which adversely affected the volume of

"We Will Remember Them"

A minister seated himself near Glasgow's Cenotaph in George Square and watched pensively the people go hurrying by, states the "Bulletin" (Glasgow).

Not a single man of the throng who passed and repassed the cenotaph raised his hat as a mark of respect to the city's war dead.

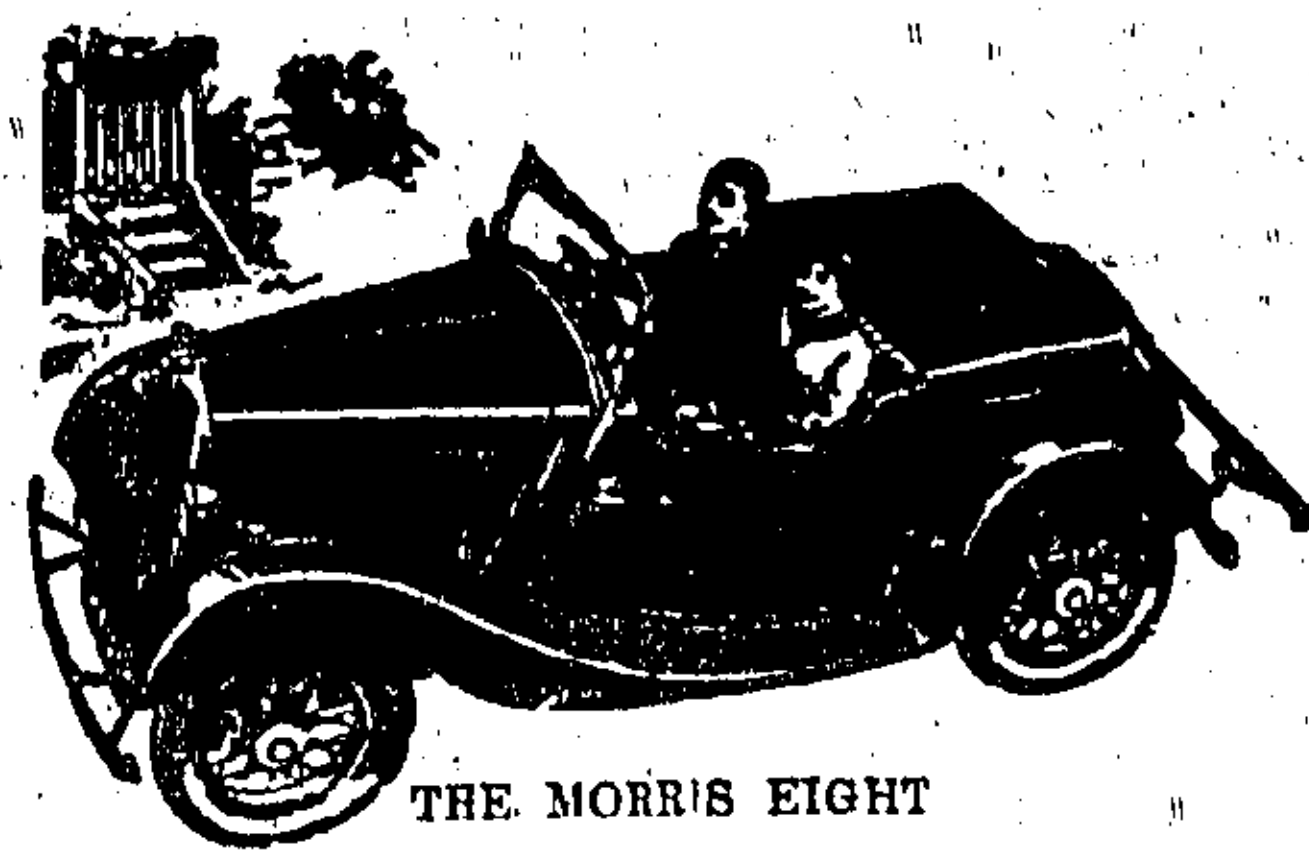

But an old woman glanced kindly towards the cenotaph and passed on.

The minister rose. He went into a building near-by to attend a meeting of one of Glasgow's voluntary hospitals, and told those present what he had just seen.

"Some people may say it is natural to try and forget what the Cenotaph represents," he said, "but surely when they pass the gates of your institution, day after day, they might take two thoughts of the living service that is being carried on there and be inspired to put their hands a little deeper into their pockets to support the work."

The minister was the Rev. R. F. V. Scott who was speaking at the annual meeting of Glasgow Western Infirmary.

Royal Welch Fusiliers'
St. David's Ball

At the entrance to the Rose Room stood two Fusiliers, in reds with busby, while in the dance hall were two Welsh girls, Miss Janet Cutler and Miss Hilda George, dressed in Welsh traditional costume, their presence lending a finished touch to the prevailing atmosphere.

Two drummers of the R.W.F., also in full dress with busby, handed sprigs of leeks to the guests as they arrived.

"EATING THE LEEKS"

The dance commenced at 8.30 p.m. and at 10 p.m. the Colours were marched in amid great ceremonial.

"Eating the leeks" ceremony came at 11.30 p.m. and this unique function introduced Drum Major Brooker and the Regimental band, "Billy," with the drummers beating "British Grenadiers." All newly joined members of the Regiment, with their wives, then partook of the leeks and the ceremony was brought to a successful conclusion.

This was followed by presentations made to the Misses Cutler and George by Mrs. Barchard, the wife of Lt.-Col. D. M. Barchard, Commanding Officer of the Royal Welch Fusiliers.

Following midnight supper, the dance programme was continued and was commenced with a Welsh traditional dance, "Grand March Lances," led by Col. and Mrs. Barchard.

Dancing was continued until 2 a.m. when the merry party dispersed.

The host and hostess of the evening were the Bandmaster, Mr. S. E. Hills, A.R.C.M. and Mrs. Hills. The music was supplied by the dance band of the Royal Welch Fusiliers under Mr. Hills.

The supper menu cards were printed in the shape of the black flash worn at the back of the Regiment's uniform, and the cards also gave a history of the flash.

The Ball Committee comprised:—C.Q.M.S. Cheetham (President), Band Sgt. Flanagan (Treasurer), Colour Sergeant Fraser, Pioneer Sergeant Cutler, Sergeant Cowan and Sergeant Kretschmar. The M.C.'s were C.Q.M.S. Price and C.Q.M.S. Green.

BREAKFAST FUNCTION

At 3 a.m., after the party had departed, the Warrant Officers and Staff Sergeants sat down to an enjoyable breakfast.

Among those present at the Ball were Lt.-Col. and Mrs. D. M. Barchard, Brigadier and Mrs. H. G. Seth-Smith, Col. Burkhardt, G.S.O., Col. H. C. Harrison, G.S.O. (I), Lieut.-Col. M. H. GERMAN LEADER
INSULTED*New York Mayor's References

Berlin, Mar. 4.

A storm of indignation was roused in the entire press here at the latest insults against Germany and her Chancellor, uttered by the Mayor of New York, La Guardia.

The latter spoke before the woman's section of the American Jewish Congress, and according to press reports the mayor referred to Hitler as a "Brown-shirted fanatic who is endangering the peace of Europe" and added that "a wax effigy" of this fanatic would be shown as the chief exhibit in the chamber of horrors which Mr. La Guardia would himself open.

The defamatory remarks by the New York mayor are condemned by the entire press here in exceedingly scathing tones. The National Socialist organ, "Der Angriff," features the incident on the front page under large black type heading "New York's Jew-in-Chief" insults the Fuehrer in obscene language.

"Since La Guardia's remarks are directed against the Head of the German State, we are compelled to ask the United States in all seriousness what they propose to do in order to assure that the most primitive laws of international courtesy are respected in a territory under its authority," says the "Angriff."

The "Berliner Nachtausgabe" recalls that "La Guardia also helped the Communist mob which tore the Swastika flag from the German ship 'Bremer' in New York," while the "Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung" points out that "the stupid defamation of the head of a foreign state could not be passed over in silence by the United States Government since the tenure of such a post as that of Mayor of New York imposes certain obligations on its holder."

The paper adds that Germany expects the United States to take appropriate action.

INDIGNANT MESSAGE

New York, March 4.

A telegram has been sent by all German Societies of Greater New York to Mayor La Guardia, protesting in the sharpest tones against the Mayor's unparalleled attack on the German Chancellor. The telegram declares that it is incredible that the mayor of an American city, who, in the discharge of his duties is strongly dependent on the co-operation of the German elements in the population, should have the audacity to slander in this manner the head of a friendly nation and to besmirch its good name. The abusive speech of the Mayor is a grave insult to all the U.S. citizens of German origin, who are not disposed to submit to such.

PROTEST LOGGED

Berlin, Mar. 4.

The German Ambassador in Washington, Dr. H. Luther, lodged a vigorous protest with the Department of State against the speech of the New York Mayor, La Guardia.

MR. HULL'S STATEMENT

Washington, Mar. 4.

The German Embassy having lodged an energetic protest with the United States Government against the insulting speech of Mayor La Guardia, the Secretary of State, Mr. Cordell Hull said that he would at once ascertain whether the press reports represented the actual facts.

Mr. Hull added that there could be no question that it was regrettable that any American citizen, whatever he might think of the internal politics of another country, should use expressions that could be interpreted as offence by the Government of the country in question. Mr. Hull said that he would, therefore, go into touch with Mayor La Guardia at once.

In New York it is pointed out that Mayor La Guardia's term of office expires at the end of this year, and it is added that by reason of their great numerical strength these Jewish votes can, under certain conditions, determine the course of a mayoral election in New York.

RELIGION: PERSONAL AND IMPERSONAL

IV: The Book Of The Acts

(BY SCRUTATOR)

Events after that move with a quickness and suddenness which make a scientific study of the period very difficult. With the first forty years of the first Christian century the Church had completely changed from being a Jewish sect to a religion with universal pretensions. Instead of there being one authoritative Church in Jerusalem, there existed two independent churches, one in Jerusalem and one in Antioch and when Saul of Tarsus became Paul the Christian it was to the religion of the Antioch Church, or, as Dean Inge puts it, "it was to the Christianity of Stephen, not to that of the Christians of Jerusalem, that he was converted."

The history of the divisions between these two rival churches is largely lost but we read that Peter, the head of "the law-abiding" Church at Jerusalem was commanded in a vision to admit the Gentile Cornelius to the fellowship of his church (Acts X: 20) and finally, we read that "they which were scattered abroad upon the persecution that arose about Stephen... spake unto the Grecians, preaching the Lord Jesus. And the hand of the Lord was with them and a great number believed and turned unto the Lord."

When these new happenings reached the ears of the Church in Jerusalem, Barnabas, a member of the Jerusalem Church though a Hellenist, was sent to enquire into the state of affairs, but instead of returning with his report to his superiors, he was converted to the Pauline point of view and remained with the Apostles for a year in Antioch. But the Jerusalem Church with its Judaizing policy, followed the work of the Christians in Antioch attacking what they called their heresies. This process went on until a situation arose which called for the first Council of Christians which took place in the year 49 A.D. At this Council the Pauline point of view virtually triumphed and the Jewish party forsook the rigorous application of the Law of Circumcision as a condition of admission to the Christian fellowship, and they expressed their willingness to admit the Gentile whose life showed evidence of the sincerity of his conversion.

PAUL SETS OUT

Encouraged with this success Paul set out to convert the world of his day by preaching to all men that the Jewish Messiah had come and that now Gentile and Jew alike could enter the Kingdom of God. The strict Jews hated this, but Paul persevered proclaiming to all men, to the believers in the Aristotelian metaphysical "unknown God," to the worshippers of Isis and Cybele, as well as to the believers in the resurrection of the mythological Horus, the all-sufficiency of Jesus Christ. Within a century, the Jewish Law, the Greek Philosophy and the mystery religions had all become "school-masters" leading men to Christ.

Paul did not at once, however, outgrow the apocalyptic position, the belief in the immediate second-coming of Christ, which was held in the Jerusalem Church, and for that reason perhaps, his epistles do not relate very many details concerning the earthly life of Christ, but the passage of the years delaying the second-coming caused the apocalyptic element in his belief to recede into the background of his mind and his preaching. His emphasis came more and more to dwell upon the indwelling Christ. Each new believer became a resurrection into the Kingdom of God which "is on earth as it is in heaven." For Paul and his Gentile converts the Gospel is not so much the whole life of Christ as it is the final act of his life. The Resurrection eclipses all else.

It soon became apparent to the Apostles that the Church would survive them and that it had before it an earthly existence of which, at the most, they could only witness the beginning. When Jerusalem was destroyed by the Romans in 70 A.D. and the Jewish state was obliterated the Church became almost entirely Gentile in its composition and there arose a real danger for the non-Jewish Christian who had no racial prepossession for the Divine Messiah.

that the 'Son of God' whom he worshipped might rapidly become as unreal as any of the other deities of the Gentile religions, not a vital historical character, but a mere figment of traditional imagination, or simply an article of a creed. It was at this point that the Gospels came to the rescue of the Church which was struggling to maintain a precarious foothold throughout the Roman Empire. They were necessitated by the gradual diminution of the apocalyptic hope, and the destruction of the Church in Jerusalem where that hope lived most fervently, and by the tremendous increase of the number of Gentile Christians.

ORDER OF COMPOSITION

Mark, Matthew, Luke, John, that, so far as we know, is the order of their composition. When we read the words of their narratives we feel that we have before us the authentic message of Jesus. Mark is especially significant for his chronological accuracy and for his reverent delineation of our Lord's character both as human and as divine. Matthew and Luke who were influenced considerably by the mystic doctrines of Paul follow Mark, and where they differ from him they tend to substitute the influence of the indwelling Christ for the vivid real impression which his historical character makes upon us. This difference was appreciated even during the first century and its effects became apparent. With the passage of the years, the mystical element, the 'demigod' Christ began to appear in popular conception, and St. John wrote his gospel to combat this tendency. His gospel emphasizes the humanity of our Lord but succeeds simultaneously in making his divinity more real and more august. Christ was God before the world was and will be when the world is no more. While both Mark's gospel and John's are essentially reverent, the difference between them is that Mark's is historical in its emphasis and John's is experiential.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LESSON SERMON

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST, HONG KONG

The subject of the Lesson Sermon in all churches of Christ, Scientist, to-morrow, March 7, will be: "Man."

The Golden Text will be: "Ye are my witnesses, saith the Lord, and my servant whom I have chosen." (Isaiah 43:10)

Among others, the following citations from the Bible will be read: "Beware lest any man spoil you by philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ. For in him dwelleth all the fullness of the Godhead bodily. And ye are complete in him, which is the head of all, principality and power. For ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus. There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female; for ye are all one in Christ Jesus." (Col. 2: 8-10, Gal. 3: 26, 28)

The Lesson Sermon will also include the following passages from the Christian Science Text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Union of the masculine and feminine qualities constitutes completeness. The masculine mind reaches a higher tone through certain elements of the feminine, while the feminine mind gains courage and strength through masculine qualities. These different elements conjoin naturally with each other, and true harmony is in spiritual oneness. The Lamb's wife presents the unity of male and female as no longer two wedded individual but as two individual natures in one; and this compounded spiritual individuality reflects God as Father-Mother. Mother, not as a corporeal being. In this divinely united spiritual consciousness, there is no impediment to eternal bliss—to the perfectibility of God's creation." (Pages 57, 577).

CATHOLIC NEWS AND NOTES

Good Press Day

To-morrow is celebrated as "Good Press" Day in Hong Kong. The purpose of this day is to impress on the Catholic population the need of good reading. The Catholic attitude towards reading is not always understood, for some people imagine that the Catholic Church confines itself to forbidding everything that it dislikes. The fact is that for one book which is condemned by the Church as being harmful many thousands are strongly recommended as being useful and beneficial. The number of publishers, printers and writers all over the world that owe their livelihood to the approval and support of Catholic ecclesiastical authorities must run into many thousands. The Catholic attitude towards bad literature is to treat it like poison, as harmful to the soul as poison is to the body. But it regards good literature as food. It encourages the support of the press and the publications which are guided by the ordinary sound principles of morality and truth even though they may have no connection with Catholics. In recent years the wrong impression that was widespread with regard to Catholic views on books and publications has been corrected and now the majority of reputable publishers all over the world look upon Catholics in their official as well as in their private capacity as friends rather than as foes.

CATHOLIC PRESS IN ENGLAND

Many Catholic papers published in England are circulated in the British Colonies, including Hong Kong, and people often ask about the position of the Catholic Church with regard to them. Occasionally it happens that one who is in no way unfriendly towards Catholic things is particularly annoyed by something which he reads in one of these Catholic papers, and he wants to know if this represents the ordinary Catholic view. The Archbishop of Westminster recently made an authoritative statement on this point, declaring that in all matters relating to faith and morals this Catholic press is under the general supervision of the Catholic hierarchy, but beyond this the hierarchy is not responsible. In political questions each paper is free to follow "the just and truthful principles of the aide conscientiously adopted." This statement should remove the belief which sometimes prevails that every Catholic activity is rigorously controlled from above, and probably directed from Rome, though the wide diversity on political and economic questions which is found in the Catholic papers should be itself sufficient to disabuse any thoughtful person of this opinion.

The Fourth Sunday of Lent, which is to-morrow, is "Laetare"

ANTHONY ADVERSE

There was a lot of ageing done by the make-up artists in "Anthony Adverse," the Warner Bros. production which comes to the Majestic Theatre to-day. Fredric March, Claude Rains, Gale Sondergaard, Olivia de Havilland, Donald Woods and others had to grow some twenty odd years older during the course of the picture.

But Anton Grot, Warner Bros. art director, had an even harder job than ageing actors and actresses. He had to age settings. The biggest set-ageing job was done on the Casa de Bonnyfeather, the home and business place of Anthony's grandfather. The most delicate job of set-ageing was indicating the passing of summer on the mill setting

RAINBOW ON THE RIVER

Replete with pathos, comedy, drama and spectacle, "Rainbow on the River," new singing film starring young Bobby Breen, produced by Sol Lesser, opens at the Queen's Theatre to-day.

Songs designed to appeal to every type of music lover are rendered by the nine year old lyric tenor in a heart-touching manner, while the story offers the young star an opportunity to go through the entire gamut of emotions.

Set in the reconstruction period following the Civil War, the story traces the early experiences of a young waif in New Orleans, where a devoted negro servant of his dead parents strives to bring up the lad in ignorance of his family name.

Through the intervention of the kindly pastor of a church where Bobby sings in the choir, Yankee relatives in New York are traced and they send for the orphan in an endeavour to confirm his kinship. As a striking contrast to the simple life he enjoyed in his native Southland, Bobby finds himself a virtual prisoner in the frigid mansion of an unsympathetic grandmother. It is here that he undergoes heart-breaking experiences, struggling against the scheming of an aunt and uncle who resent his presence. How the lad upsets their plans and at the same time wins the love of his austere grandparent are events leading to the happy climax.

The brilliant boy tenor is surrounded by such capable performers as May Robson, Charles Butterworth, Louise Beavers, Alan Mowbray, Benita Hume, Marilyn Knowlden, Henry O'Neill and the famous Hall Johnson Choir.

IT'S GREAT TO BE IN COLLEGE

As a real-life adventure, there are few experiences comparable in thrill and interest to watching a big motion picture company organize, transport a great number of persons, and start "shooting" on location.

A typical day during production of "It's Great to be in College," Twentieth Century-Fox musical football triumph now playing at the Alhambra Theatre, first showing to-day, consists of the following sequence of events:

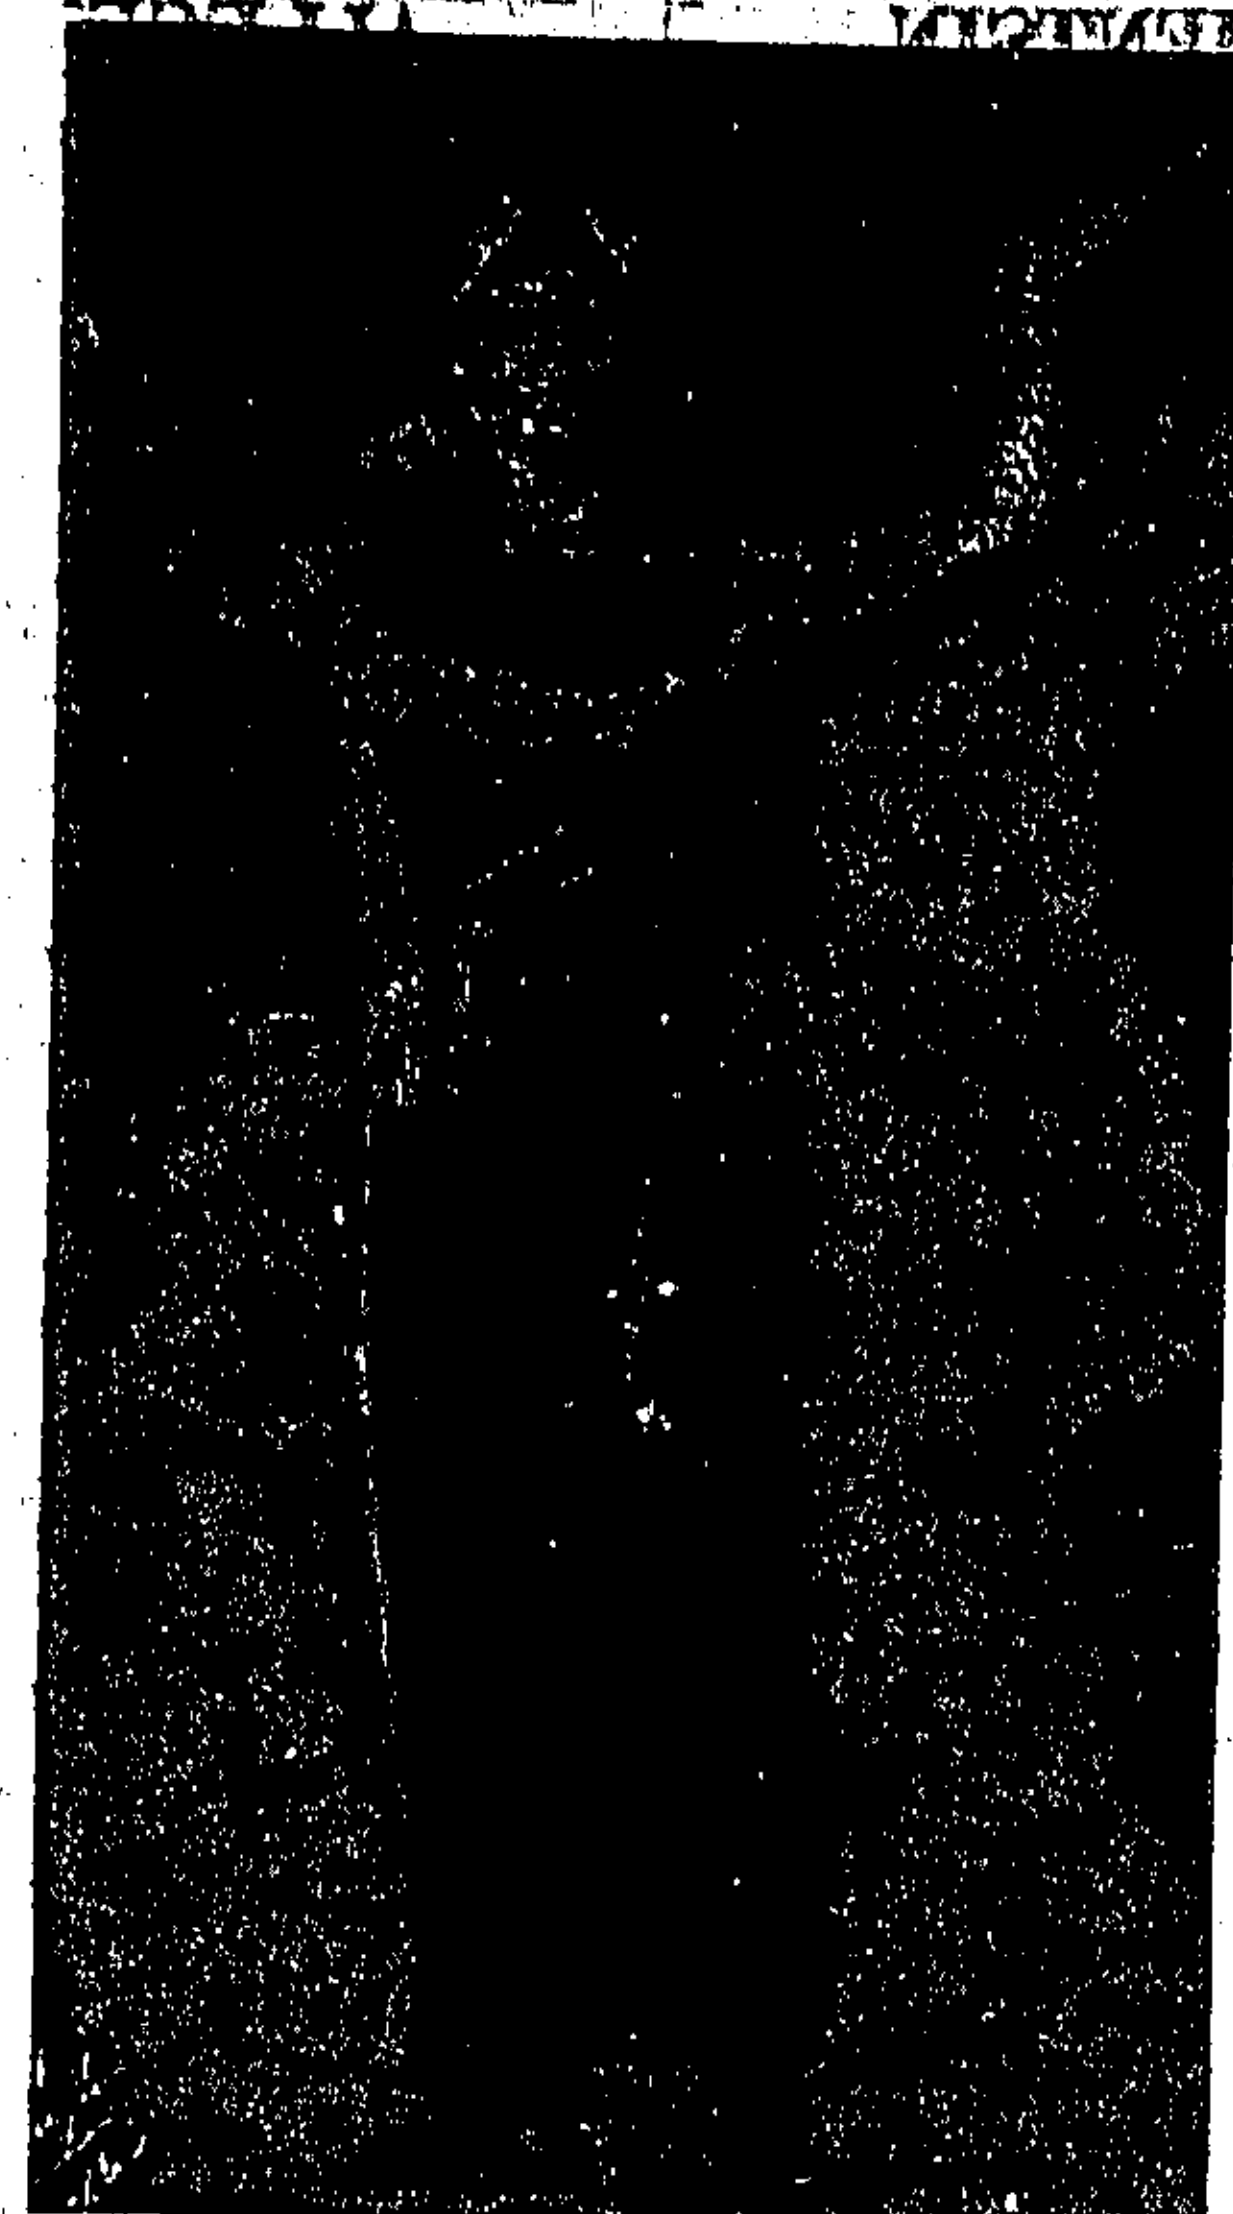

The casting office issued a call for the featured members of the cast, Stuart Erwin, Johnny Downs, Arline Judge, Betty Grable, Patsy Kelly, Jack Haley, the Yacht Club Boys, Dixie Dunbar, Anthony Martin and Judy Garland, and 250 extras to report at the studio at 7.30 a.m.

Big studio buses, resembling busses used to transport school children, were loaded exactly at the appointed time. Everyone went in these buses, including Director David Butler and the players.

Stuart Erwin has the most hilarious role of his career in "It's Great to be in College," playing a "barefooted hill-billy" who can forward pass a muckmelon—or a football—fabulous distances.

where Maria kept her trysts with Demis.

"Anthony Adverse" is a dynamic drama produced on a gigantic scale from the novel by Harvey Allen. The picture was directed by Mervyn LeRoy.

Miss Xenia Zarina, well-known classical dancer from America, will entertain in the Roof Garden of the Hong Kong Hotel on Wednesday night.

THE GARDEN OF ALLAH

For his second independent effort, David O. Selznick, the brilliant young producer who last season inaugurated Selznick International Pictures with the delightful "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has gone into the technicolour field. The result is a truly breathtaking production of the great Robert Hichens love story, "The Garden of Allah," co-starring Marlene Dietrich and Charles Boyer, that magically catches the mystic, romantic atmosphere of the desert that pervades the novel, showing to-day at the King's Theatre.

The use of technicolour miraculously transforms both stars into new and more exciting personalities, and the fair beauty of Dietrich provides a perfect foil for the dark-eyed handsomeness of Boyer. Truly you have never seen the exotic, Marlene until you see her in technicolour! She is dazzling in the newly-revealed glory of golden hair, blue eyes and flawless creamy complexion.

Marlene Dietrich is divinely feminine and alluring as Dominica, the lovely heroine of Hichens' novel, the European girl who, at the death of the father to whom she has devoted several years of her life, goes to Beni-Mora, the parish of the kindly Father Roubier in the Algerian desert seeking a new life.

Here she meets the strange, brooding handsome Boris Androvsky, who is obviously disturbed by a deep secret sorrow.

Unknown to her, Boris is ac-

MUMMY'S BOYS

Egypt's mysterious and romantic Valley of the Kings, a barren depression near the Nile where Tutankhamen and many other Pharaohs of the ancient days were entombed, forms the unique setting for many of the scenes in "Mummy's Boys." Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey's newest starring vehicle for RKO Radio.

As a pair of ditch-diggers who join an expedition to the tomb of King Pharaoh, not knowing that a sinister "curse" has already taken the lives of ten members of a previous party, Bert and Bob find themselves involved from the outset, in a series of exciting incidents.

Mysterious Orientals peer through the windows of their employers' home; en route to Egypt the ship is in a collision; two members of the expedition disappear in a strange fashion, to the accompaniment of menacing warnings; and when the intrepid pair finally reach the tomb a landslide imprisons them inside it with a murderous maniac.

These and the other weird happenings that befall them, however, frightening as they may be, to Wheeler and Woolsey, produce nothing but laughter as far as the audience is concerned, and the authors and scenarists have ingeniously devised a plot that makes "Mummy's Boys" an outstanding contender for the year's hilarity honors.

In a huge reproduction of an actual Egyptian tomb as the setting for the final third of the picture, film audiences will witness a sight that, even tourists in Egypt are seldom allowed to observe, most of the tombs being closed to the general public.

The "set," which fills one of Hollywood's largest studio stages, was built after months of research by Van Nest, Polglasse and Field Gray of RKO's art department. The carvings and decorations on the walls of the three main rooms and the many interesting passages, are exact copies of those found in the real tombs tunnelled into the rock cliff of the Valley of the Kings, and the elaborate sarcophagi, chariots, weapons and other objects in the set are also perfectly reproduced.

Director Fred Gulof and Producer Lee Marcus assembled a notable supporting cast. Barbara Pepper is the heroine and Frank M. Thomas, Moroni Olsen, Willie Best, Mitchell Lewis and Francis McDonald head the players.

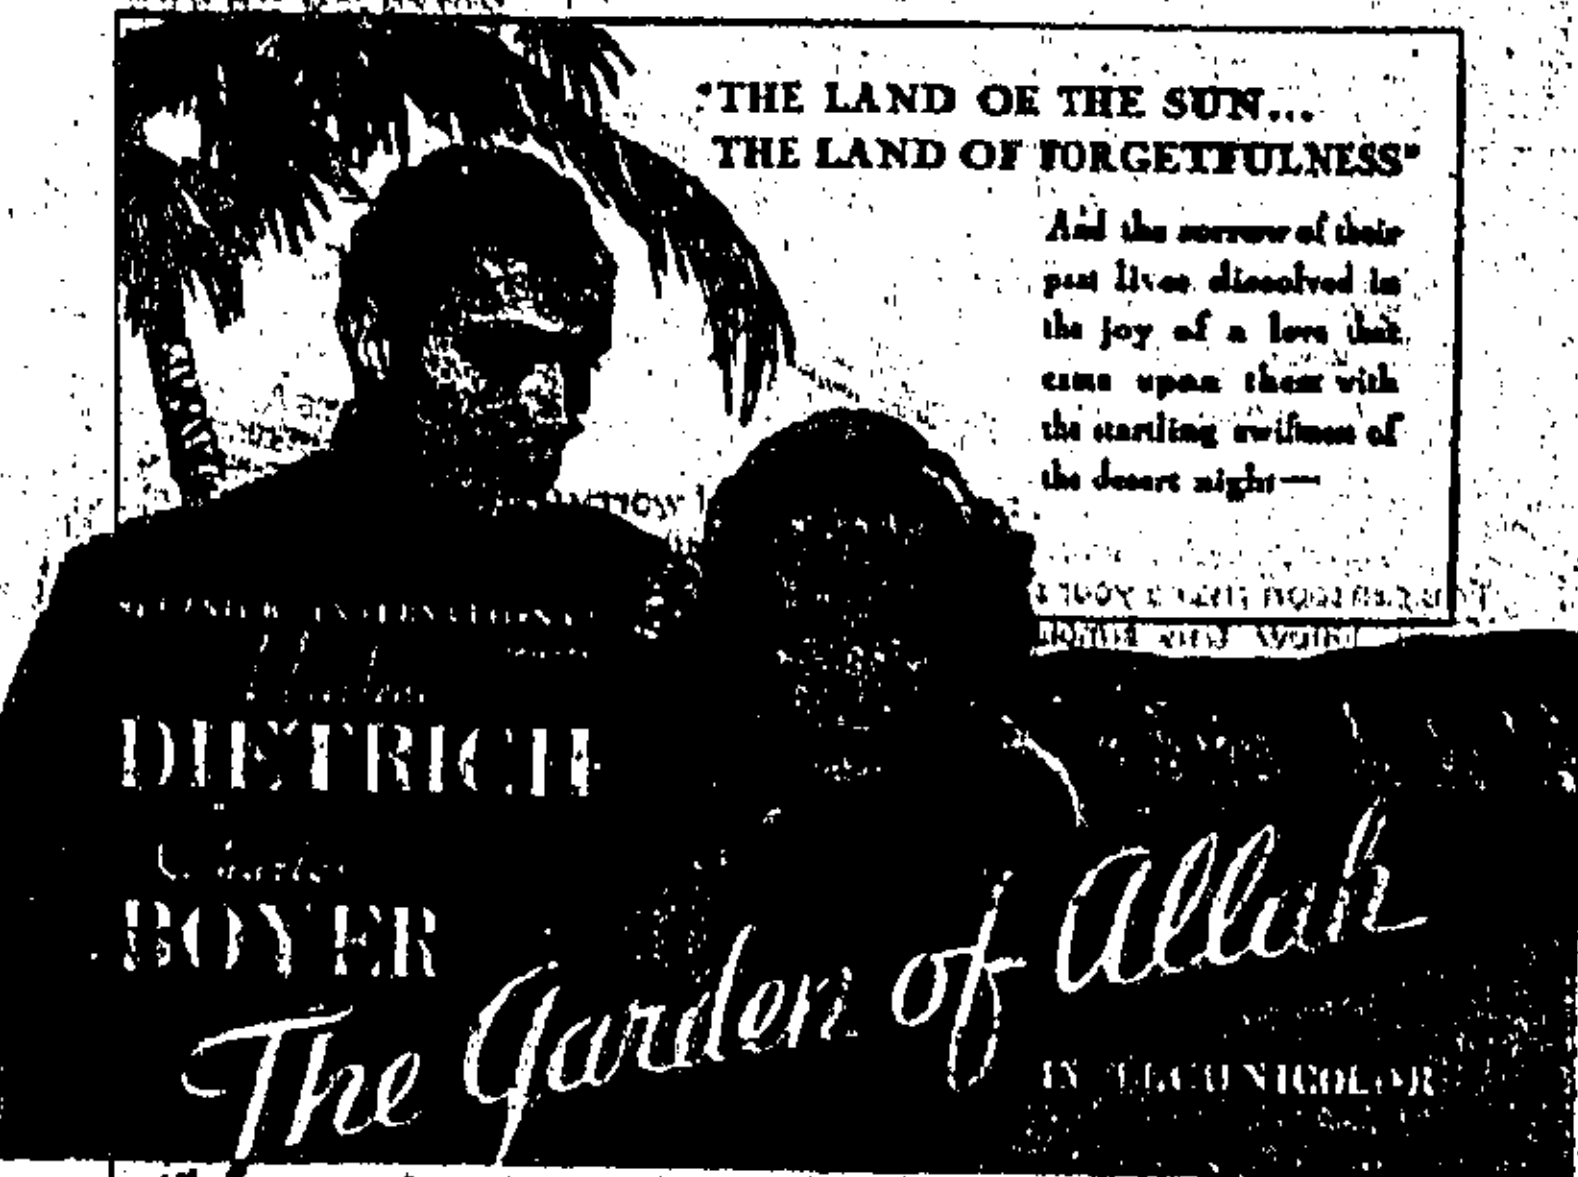

Usually a Trappist monk who has fled from the monastery after taking the eternal vows, and is torn by the terrible inner struggle between his duty to his God and his love for this fascinating woman.

Following a glorious desert romance, Boris forgets everything but his love for Dominica and the pair are married by Father Roubier and go off on an idyllic honeymoon in the heart of the desert.

The story leads up to a thrilling climax and an unexpected denouement.

VAGRANT FROM TIENTSIN

Sent To House Of Detention

Harry Ernest Mulvey, aged 44, a British subject, was brought before Mr. K. Keen at the Central Magistracy yesterday for being a vagrant in the Colony.

Defendant arrived Hong Kong on the s.s. Nanning last Thursday, from Tientsin where he had been living most of his life. He gave himself up to the police on his arrival, pleaded that he had come to Hong Kong to look for work. He had a certificate issued to him by the British Consulate in Tientsin to travel here.

Defendant was committed to the House of Detention on the prosecuting officer's request.

TRAFFIC OFFENCES

European Fined

Appearing before Mr. K. M. A. Barnett at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday, Mrs. N. P. Fox, of 177, Boundary Street, Kowloon Tong, was summoned for failing to notify the nearest police station as soon as was reasonably possible after her car had collided with the railing bordering the Tai Po Road near the Shatin Railway Station on February 3 last, and was fined a sum of $5. Sergeant McHardy stated that the defendant in a statement that the defendant, through her husband, sent a letter to the traffic department pleading ignorance of the regulations.

For having no rear red light on his car on February 15 last at 7.30 p.m., Mr. Relve, of Hunter's Arms, Fanning, was fined $5.

SLIGHT COLLISION

A. H. Delcourt, of 312, Prince Edward Road, was summoned for driving without due care and caution in Prince Edward Road before Mr. K. M. A. Barnett at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday. After hearing the evidence his Worship remarked, "It would be better in future to stop before looking for house numbers."

Traffic Sergeant W. McHardy stated that about 8.30 a.m. on February 2 last, defendant was driving his car towards Waterloo Road from Kowloon City when he suddenly bumped into a tricycle going in the same direction, and which had been hugging the green islands by the side of the road. No person was injured though the car was slightly damaged.

Defendant stated that he had been looking for a house and was apparently travelling very slowly when the accident occurred. He had not noticed the tricycle until the car collided with it.

A fine of $20 was imposed on the defendant who was also ordered to pay $5 compensation to the owner of the tricycle.

ALLEGED MURDER

Death Of Village Elder Recalled

Tsui Cho, of San Wui district, appeared on remand before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday afternoon charged with the murder of Li Pak-yu, the chief elder of the Shan Lui village, San Wui district, and two others, on May 27 last year.

It was alleged that Tsui, on the day in question, went to a match-shed (which was being used as a summer house by the deceased) before 10 p.m. and together with others armed with pistols fired at their victims.

After the murder, defendant absconded, and had allegedly been hiding in the Colony until February 3 when defendant was arrested by constable at No. 37, Tai Yuen Street.

An identification parade was held in Victoria Gaol on February 9, and defendant was identified by three witnesses as the alleged murderer.

The case was conducted by Mr. E. H. Williams, Assistant Attorney General, assisted by Chief Detective Inspector J. Murphy.

After further evidence was taken, his Worship remanded the case till 2.30 p.m. on Monday.

ACCUSED ALLEGES BRIBERY

Ferry Case Sequel

Tam Shiu-ming, 18, student, was brought before Mr. K. Keen at the Central Magistracy yesterday for attempting to travel on a Shum-shiupo ferry without paying his fare. When defendant was asked to buy his ticket he produced a monthly ticket which belonged to his friend.

According to Tam he was taken into the office by the Inspector who said that if he would give him money the matter would not be proceeded with. Finally the sum was reduced to $6 when defendant said that he had no money on him. He went to ask his friend to borrow the sum, but was informed that such a practice such as demanding money even from an offender was illegal. Eventually defendant was taken to the Police Station.

The case was remanded till Friday at 2.30 p.m.

DEATH INQUEST

Sitting as Coroner at the Central Magistracy yesterday, Mr. K. Keen conducted an inquest into the circumstances regarding the death of a prisoner Hon San, who died in the Victoria Gaol Hospital at 5.45 a.m. on February 28.

The jury comprised Messrs. J. M. Pinna (foreman), F. K. Patinson Lau Ka.

Dr. G. I. Shaw, medical officer of the prison testified that when defendant was admitted to prison on February 25, he was in a very poor state of health, and was at once rushed to the hospital, where he remained till February 25, when he died.

The causes of his death were due to clinical malaria.

ROBBERY CASE

Girl Who Filmed Madrid Horrors Now In Hospital

A young South African girl is in University College Hospital, London, suffering from the effect of exposure after eight weeks' film work among the horrors of bombed Madrid, states the "Bulletin" (Glasgow).

She is Miss Vera Elkan, who was sent to Madrid from London by the producers of the film, "Defence of Madrid," to photograph the work of the International Brigade, recovered sufficiently to tell a reporter something of her adventures.

"I am not a politician," she said. "My job was to record what I could on all the fronts around Madrid. I visited them all, and the experience was extraordinary."

"I tried at first to keep to a scenario, but it soon proved impossible. I took about 1400 feet of film altogether. Every phase of the life of the International Brigade was photographed, and in addition I managed to secure some fine shots of the destruction of the newly built University City and of the medical work behind the lines."

During part of her stay Miss Elkan lived in a flat formerly occupied by the Spanish solicitor to the German Embassy in Madrid. Papers in the flat, she said, showed that Franco's attack was planned

MORE HEROIN PILLS

Man Committed To Sessions

Appearing before Mr. K. Keen at the Central Magistracy yesterday afternoon, Chan Wai-chol, 34, was charged with the possession of about 37,000 heroin pills found in a suitcase he was carrying.

In evidence, constable C. 573, who made the arrest, said that on February 22 about 5.40 p.m. he saw defendant walking along Woon Chow Street, Tai Hang, carrying a leather suitcase on his shoulder. He went up to search him, and was informed that the contents were clothing, but defendant was unable to produce the key to open it. He arrested defendant and at the Police Station the pills were found.

Defendant said that he was not the owner of the suit case, and added that he was asked to carry it by a person named Li Tung Chuen whom he could not find to verify his statement.

Defendant was committed for trial at the next Criminal Sessions. Mr. M. J. Abbott, Assistant Crown Solicitor, prosecuted.

THEFT DENIED

The charge of larceny of a cash box containing 82 cents was preferred against Wong Choi, a 26-year-old unemployed when he appeared before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday.

Cheung Sang, of No. 57, Queen's Road Central was the complainant. Defendant denied the theft. His Worship remanded the case till 11.30 a.m. on Tuesday. Bail was fixed at $50.

WIDOW FINED

Lam Yee, 65, widow, of 21, Tai Nam Street, Kowloon, was fined $145 or three months' imprisonment when she appeared before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday morning for the possession of an illicit still, fermenting material and dutiable wine. Revenue Officer P. J. O'Neill prosecuted.

Man Sap, 28, unemployed of No. 39, Centre Street, was charged with the larceny of a quantity of electric wiring from No. 357 Des Voeux Road Thursday last. Defendant was sentenced to two months' hard labour by Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday.

MARITAL DISCORD

Seaman Summoned
At Kowloon

Albert Anderson Warild, seaman, was summoned at the instigations of his wife, Ida Warild, before Mr.
K. M. A. Barnett yesterday at the Kowloon Magistracy for having been guilty of persistent cruelty to her at No. 183, Sai Yeung Choi Street, first floor, and causing her in this way to leave him on January 30 last.

Mrs. F. G. Nigel appeared on behalf of the complainant, and asked the Witness for an adjournment.
Defendant, who pleaded not guilty, objected to a remand, stating that as he was a seafaring man in a subordinate position and that his time was limited, he was to leave the Colony that afternoon and wanted the case to be heard immediately. He did not know when he would return to Hong Kong.

As the plaintiff was not in Court, Mr. Nigel stated that it was impossible to proceed with the case.
His Worship accordingly adjourned the case sine die.

THE BENEVOLENT SOCIETY

SOCIAL OBLIGATIONS

Sir William Hornell said:
The Hong Kong Benevolent Society is doing indispensable social duty. No one would have the audacity to question this. But, we citizens of Hong Kong, or many of us, are a little inclined to take for granted the voluntary performance by others of social obligations. We give our $10, or $20, or whatever it may be, and feel that we have done all that could be reasonably expected of us.
But, do we realize the extent—the complexity, of the work of this Society? And, do we realize the fact that this work is carried out without the burden on the Society's funds of any recurring working expenses, save the wages of a cook, and the cost of printing and posting?

Last year, the Society's expenditure amounted to $14,791.02. The whole of this amount was spent in relief, save $380.25, and this included the cost of a new typewriter, a filing cabinet, and additional and repairs to the furniture of the Society's office room.

Applications for relief are investigated. Relief is distributed—sometimes money; sometimes food;
sometimes clothing—children are sent to school; passages secured.

VOLUNTARY WORKERS

The work of the Society could not go on, were it not for a number of ladies who realize that there is something to be done for others and that it is up to them to do it. There is no room among voluntary workers of this Society for those who are mildly interested, and are prepared to come down and help when there is nothing else more attractive to do. It is perfectly obvious that the work of the Society involves incessant attention. Take, for example, the question of clothing. The Society collects discarded clothing from the charitable—this clothing has to be sorted, cleaned, repaired and altered to fit those who need it.
We all know what happens to clothing in Hong Kong. If you merely put it on a shelf and leave it there, I know that those who have made themselves responsible for dealing with the work of the Society feel that it is up to them never to miss a day from their self imposed duties, if they can possibly help it.

I regard the Hong Kong Benevolent Society as one of the few really well run institutions in this Colony. Long after I have said goodbye to Hong Kong, I shall continue to think of the work which it is doing with pride.
(N.B.—The Society, like all well run institutions, has worked out a list of urgently needed improvements. It needs very badly some sort of working scheme for supplying food to destitutes whom the Society considers deserving.)

FOOD KITCHEN

The Society ought to be able to run a food kitchen of its own; the necessary work of catering and cleaning being done by some of the Society's dependents. Pending this, most desirable development, the Society hopes to be able to make some arrangement with a restaurant in Kowloon, to supply daily meals on its behalf. This will obviously be much more satisfactory than the payment of doles for the purchase of food.

The Society employs a deserving Filipino woman, who alters the clothing which is unsuitable, and keeps the Society's cupboards stocked with garments of clothing fit for children of school age. The Society is trying to employ as many of its dependents as possible in small ways, so that these dependents may feel that they are earning, at least to some extent, the allowance from the Society without which they could not live.

FINANCIAL PROBLEM

Surely a Society which is performing the essential social service which this Society is performing, and performing it efficiently and with devotion and self sacrifice, ought to be able to raise enough money to enable it to carry out at least the much needed development to which I have referred.
There ought to be more regular annual subscribers. The list of subscribers and donors is not a very creditable one. I would also suggest, that those who are leaving the Colony for good, should become life members of the Society—it only costs $100, and there are at least some who do not leave Hong Kong empty.

In conclusion, I feel that I shall only be doing what you would wish me to do. I ask you, on behalf of the non-Chinese community of this Colony, to express the gratitude which is due in such abundant measure to the officers and members of the Committee, members of the Financial and Advisory Committee, and the voluntary workers who have helped the Society. Mrs. F. C. Hall, the President of the Society for 1937, is shortly going on leave. Mr. and Mrs. Hall are very old friends of mine. All Mrs. Hall's friends know what a capable person she is. She has given of her capacity and devotion ungrudgingly to the Society.

We thank her, and thank her most profoundly, but her real reward (though she asks for none) is in the consciousness of a great charitable work unselfishly done, and the unspoken gratitude of the many men, women and children, whom the Society has rescued from despair.

THANKS RETURNED

The adoption of the report and accounts were proposed by Sir William Hornell and seconded by Mr. P. S. Cassidy, the latter pointing out that those who had a knowledge of the work of the Society were grateful for the tremendous amount of work contributed by its office holders. The Society's recent appeal for more subscribing members were emphasized by the speaker who suggested that the Society should endeavour to give more publicity to its work through the Press.

Sir William Hornell called for a

AN ATTITUDE TO WAR

It must be apparent even to the meanest intellect that in regard to the vexed question of an attitude to war, it is essential to be practical and also to endeavour to preserve as impartial an outlook as possible regarding a matter that is so clouded by prejudice.

Correspondence on this subject has unfortunately become restricted to theological hair-splitting and the most amazing disregard for practicality. We have stated that it is our opinion that the pacifist has increased the danger of war. Commenting on world affairs this week, Mr. Wickham Steed, the veteran journalist, pointed out that Britain's unpreparedness between 1912 to 1914 was a contributing factor in that mighty upheaval which shattered so much that was beautiful of mind and body. It was that negativism which made for destruction: that negativism which, in pacifism to-day is translated into the positive, and it is that which has made such a bad impression on the more rampant nations such as Germany and Italy.

From every point of view pacifism is a very selfish theory and is calculated to put the world in darkness and terror for years. If Britain, for instance, adopted an attitude of deliberate pacifism, then her position in the world would be as unsafe as it was unique. To condense the matter in a very few words, Britain as a nation with a pacifist policy, would be regarded as a "fair game" for any and every foreign aggressor, and as an Empire she would soon cease to exist.

Whilst honouring the ideal of pacifism, yet we are forced by circumstances as they exist to-day to the conclusion that pacifism is absolutely impracticable. To espouse it would be suicidal and would constitute a betrayal of a trust and a tradition, for we believe that Britain has done more than any other nation to further peace.

CHURCH WORKER RETIRES

Thirty Four Years In China

"After over thirty years of constant contact with China and my Chinese friends, I feel that although in appearance I am European, my heart and soul are with the Chinese," remarked Rev. Percy Jenkins at the Chinese-farewell dinner given in his honour at Sincere's last night by members of the Chinese bodies prior to his departure for Home to-day by the s.s. Na'dera after 34 years in China.

In the course of his office Rev. Jenkins devoted the majority of his time to the training of young Chinese students to become ministers of the Church, and his time can by no means be considered wasted as we can see that with the exception of Blephok Mok Shau Tsang and Rev. Ha Po Wah, all the clergy in the Chinese churches in Hong Kong are his well-trained products, who, in return for his affection and never-tiring teaching, presented him with a furlined Chinese long robe.

A very beautiful silver plate was presented to him by the British

Miss Notargiacomo, the Italian dramatic soprano of international reputation, will appear at the Hong Kong Hotel, Roof Garden, on Wednesday night.

MR. KIRKPATRICK IN HONG KONG

EXPORTS CREDIT REPRESENTATIVE

Mr. William Kirkpatrick, special representative in China of the Exports Credit Guarantee Department of the British Government, was a passenger on board the P. and O. liner Na'dera when it arrived in port from Shanghai yesterday afternoon. He was accompanied by Mrs. Kirkpatrick.

Mr. Kirkpatrick came out to China six weeks ago to assist the Exports Credit Department in assessing risks and to help British manufacturers capture a bigger share of China trade. He is solely concerned with financial and economic proposals and the task confronting him is to examine and consider on the spot the proposals submitted for guarantees in connection with the export of United Kingdom goods.

The rapidity with which conditions in China have been changing has handicapped the Department in assessing credit risks and the number of proposals received by them prompted the appointment of Mr. Kirkpatrick who is not here seeking orders.

Interviewed by the "Daily Press" yesterday, Mr. Kirkpatrick stated he had nothing to say regarding the result of his survey except that China presented a tremendous scope for all foreign businesses.

"I cannot express any opinion which might be regarded by some as being optimistic or pessimistic," Mr. Kirkpatrick said.

Mr. Kirkpatrick is going on to Canton for ten days in a nature of a friendly visit to the Government there. He will continue studying the Sino-British trade prospects.

LOCAL ESTATE

Wong Kwong Chun (Choun) alias Wong King, retired piece goods merchant, who died at the Hong Kong Sanatorium on August 31, 1936, left local estate sworn at $1,000. A petition by Wong York Wai, chemist, for grant of letters of administration, has been granted by the Supreme Court. The deceased formerly resided at No. 31, Tai Po Road, and was 64 years of age.

EMBASSY OFFICIAL PASSES THROUGH

Mr. R. E. Howe, Counsellor of the British Embassy at Nanking, was a through passenger on the P. and O. liner Na'dera which arrived in port from Shanghai yesterday afternoon. He is on six months' home furlough.

Questioned regarding the Sino-British situation in Central China, Mr. Howe stated that it was never better. He considered that the relationships between Chinese and British has greatly improved lately.

MISS EARHART TO FLY ROUND WORLD

An Experimental Trip

Miss Amelia Earhart, the American pilot who has flown twice across the Atlantic and made the only solo flight between Hawaii and California, announced recently that she intended next month to leave Oakland (California) on a 27,000-mile flight round the world. She will use a twin-engine Lockheed Electra machine, which is generally known as "the flying laboratory," so complete is its equipment of instruments and experimental apparatus.

When the weather is favourable Miss Earhart, accompanied by Captain Harry Manning, of the United States Lines, as navigator, will leave Oakland for Honolulu thence she will fly to Howland Island on the Equator, which is under development by the United States Department of Commerce as a possible stop on the air route to Australia but which has not yet been visited by aircraft. Her route will then lie through New Guinea to Port Darwin.

Here Captain Manning, his duties ended with the guiding of the machine across the Pacific, will be left, but Miss Earhart will follow the Imperial Airways route to Karachi and thence fly by Aden, Khartoum, Fort Lamy, and Naimy to Dakar, and across the South Atlantic to Natal in Brazil. The last stages of her journey will lie through Para, Port of Spain, San Juan (Puerto Rico), and Miami to Lafayette (Indiana), and the seat of Purdue University (in which she is Lecturer in Aeronautics), and thence back to Oakland.

Miss Earhart's object is to prove that aeroplanes will soon be circling the globe as a matter of course, and to bring back information which may help to bring about that condition.

AIRWAYS EXPERT IN COLONY

Mr. Frank McKenzie, chief of the construction division of the Pan-American Airways, was among the disembarking passengers on the Dollar liner President Hoover which arrived in Hong Kong from Manila yesterday morning.

Mr. McKenzie is here a few days prior to going to Macao where he is to supervise the preparations for the necessary ground facilities for the trans-Pacific air service.

Interviewed by a representative of the "Daily Press," Mr. McKenzie stated that he knew nothing about any future plans or schedule of the Pan-American Airways. He believed that the long-awaited service from the United States would commence in a few weeks and stated that one of the new Sikorsky planes would be used on the first flight.

BRITAIN'S AIR PROGRAMME

EXPANSION DETAILS REVEALED

New Factories Established

London, March 5. Britain's Air Force estimates issued to-day total £68,583,600 gross and £56,500,000 net. Allowance has been made for a special appropriation in aid of £28,000,000 in connection with defence loans. Otherwise the total would have been £82,500,000, compared with £50,700,000 in 1936, an increase of £31,800,000.

By April 1 the Air Force will be composed of 100 squadrons stationed at home, the equivalent of 20 squadrons serving with the Fleet Air Arm, and 26 squadrons overseas.

The personnel will have risen to 4,640 officers and 51,000 airmen.

During the summer the strength of the Metropolitan Air Force will rise to 120 squadrons, including 20 squadrons auxiliary Air Force with first line strength of 1,500 aircraft.

These squadrons will be subsequently increased in size to give a total front line strength of 1,750 aircraft envisaged in the statement on defence in March last year.

The difference of £32,088,600 between the gross and net estimates of 1937 will be made up by the £28,000,000 from loans and £4,088,600 from miscellaneous sources, as for example receipts from State-owned civil airports and contributions from Dominion and Colonial Governments towards the Empire Air Services.

Six factories for the manufacture of engines are now in course of erection and most of them will be completed within a few months. Work is now progressing on two air-frame factories.

New factories are being established for the manufacture of air screws and bombs.

The vote for civil aviation stands at £2,315,000, an increase of £1,555,000 over 1936, largely due to development of Empire services.

The greatest portion of the appropriation, it is said, apart from the £28,000,000 from loans, is a grant from the Admiralty in respect of the Fleet Air Arm of £3,882,000.

MOROCCO FRONTIER AGITATION

Nationalists Blame French Authorities

Salamanca, Mar. 4.

The Nationalist Government has addressed a note to the signatories of the Algerias Agreement, drawing attention to the serious situation on the Franco-Spanish Moroccan frontier, owing to the fact that agitation is carried out on the Spanish side by foreign agitators.

The note states that the obvious aim of the agitators is to stir up disorder among the natives, in order to provide the authorities of the French Zone with a pretext for an invasion, when it could be argued that the French soldiers were entering the Spanish zone merely in order to prevent a spreading of disorders to the French zone.

The note states that the weapons and ammunition came over French Morocco, and considers the attitude of the French authorities a flagrant violation of the Treaty of 1912 which imposes on France and Spain the duty to establish and maintain peace in Morocco.

U.S. JUDICIAL REFORMS

Roosevelt Replies To Critics

Washington, March 4.

The United States to-day is facing a crisis fundamentally even more grave than that of four years ago, declared President F. D. Roosevelt, replying to critics of his judicial reform proposals, in a speech at the "Victory Dinner" of the Democratic Party to-night.

The success of democracy in the United States was endangered, he said, by the failure of the Supreme Court to pull together "in the three-horse team of the American system of Government."

The President maintained that the Supreme Court had created "a no-man's-land of final futility." He defied anyone to read the Supreme Court's decisions invalidating the New Deal laws and then say exactly what, if anything, they could do at this session of Congress for the agricultural and industrial workers, to control the flood and drought situations and generate cheap power with any reasonable certainty that what they did would not be nullified as unconstitutional.

President Roosevelt urged that they should remove these doubts and difficulties.

"Floods, droughts, agricultural surpluses, strikes and industrial confusion and disorder cannot be handled for ever on the catch-as-catch-can basis of the past. It would make democracy succeed we must act now," the President maintained.

CHINESE LOANS POPULAR

London, Mar. 5.

The continuous and steady rise of Chinese loans attracts the attention of all financial writers.

Enquiries carried out by Reuter in the city shows that the 1912 loan is the most favoured owing to increased revenue of the Salt Gabelle and the relatively small amount of the loans secured thereon.

Railways are also popular, particularly Honan, Lunghai and Hu-kwang, owing to the increasing returns they promise investors.

The popularity of the Chinese loans is attributed to the improved political conditions in China and the belief that the Japanese policy towards China will likely grow conciliatory.

ANGLO-EGYPTIAN TREATY

Misunderstanding Cleared

London, March 5.

The new Egyptian Minister to London has declared to the press that the Anglo-Egyptian treaty has cleared half a century's unfortunate misunderstanding. It is of special importance as it has been drafted by two Governments on an equal footing and accepted by the peoples of their nations.

Discussing the question of capitulations, the Ambassador said that this question was to be settled shortly in Montreux and offered no irreconcilable obstacles. Several fundamental questions had already been clarified.

PARIS TACKLES FINANCIAL IMPASSE

LONDON EXCHANGE

London, Mar. 5.

Yesterday's intensive fight from the franc was resumed this morning when dealings commenced on the London exchange in an atmosphere of considerable nervousness.

Francs were again heavily offered and, while active intervention by French Control was maintained, the spot rate and discounts on forward francs further slumped to 2.18 for one month and 3.62 for three months compared with 1.62 and 3.28 respectively at the close yesterday.

London exchange circles are much exercised over the question of the correct interpretation by Havas that the Stabilisation Fund if carried out to-day won't be effected below the present parity.

Many wonder whether the Government will try to emulate the late M. Poincare, who, it is recalled, long before stabilising let it be understood that stabilisation will be effected at a higher level, thus inducing capitalists to repatriate very quickly.

While this parallel obtrudes itself, London observers express doubts whether confidence in M. Leon Blum's ability to make good his word is sufficiently great to induce return of French capital.

INTEREST AROUSED

London, March 5.

The latest steps by the French Government to find a way out of the financial impasse has aroused considerable interest in London foreign exchange circles. While it is too early to appraise the full implications of the proposed measures, doubt is expressed as regards the efficacy of the measures.

London, while wishing the French Government success, points out that a French capitalist who has been free to sell and exported gold to London at the true market price, then repatriating the proceeds, is unlikely to reshuffle the gold to Paris where it is true he now obtains the full price, but where the amount realised may be in danger of being subjected to future restrictive measures by Government. It is believed that the smaller fry may choose to placate the Government by falling in with their wishes.

The composition of the committee administering the Equalisation Fund is favourably commented upon. Although market circles would have preferred to see these men placed in a more directly responsible position in connection with the nation's finances, the hope is expressed that their advice on financial policy will ultimately be heeded by the Cabinet.

Pending clarification of the situation some reluctance is shown to deal in foreign exchanges, but a small amount of bear covering of forward francs, especially for delivery at three months ahead, caused the discount to narrow from 3.50 to 3.18.

TIN PRODUCTION QUOTAS FIXED

February Reduction Factors

Paris, March 5.

The International Tin Committee fixed the production quota for the second quarter of 1937 at 100 per cent. of standard tonnages.

The Tin Committee desire to point out that reduction of visible supply for February was due to two main factors, firstly, occurrence of Chinese New Year, and secondly, the fact that one of the eastern smelters was shut down during the greater part of the month.

It is estimated that taking the probable consumption of tin at the rate of 170,000 tons annually, and allowing for under-production, in certain countries of 100 per cent., the quota should result in addition of approximately 1,800 tons of tin to the monthly stock.

There is substantial reserve production available if necessary at short notice if the above standard tonnage is fixed under the control agreement.

The communiqué adds that Mr. John Hughes has been reappointed representative on the committee for tin consuming interests in the United States.

The next meeting has been fixed for June 11.

Japan As Pivot Of Far East

Difficulties Discerned In Situation

Tokyo, March 5.

The situation in the Far East does not give ground for optimism and much difficulty has to be overcome on the basis of Japan as the pivot of the Far East.

This is the opinion of Mr. Naotake Sato, the new Japanese Foreign Minister. He said that in diplomacy the Army and the political parties must have an understanding, hinting that a unified foreign policy is necessary.

"We should have a powerful force to back our diplomacy," continued the Foreign Minister. "This is to lend weight to our legitimate pursuits, and force is not to be used for foreign invasion."

Because Mr. Sato spent the last thirty years of his diplomatic work in Europe, some circles here believe that the new foreign minister possesses not only a thorough knowledge of China but that of his own country. He is chosen to head the Foreign Office because of his seniority in the diplomatic service.

ANCIENT COLOURS IN FASHION

Dye Secrets Revealed

Scientists have revealed the secrets of the old dyes which gave vividness and gaiety to the pageantry of medieval functions.

A record of them has been made in a book to be issued by the British Colour Council in commemoration of the Coronation. It will contain an appreciative letter from King George VI, who has accepted a copy de luxe bound in vellum and coronation blue leather.

The book, which will be published shortly at 3 guineas and at 5 guineas, contain 51 traditional colours taken from 13th-century heraldry, the Orders of Knighthood, Scottish tartans, and the bunting used by the Services.

Spectrums in the book of the British-made velvets, for the robes of the Royal duchesses and the peeresses, show the historical shades. The duchesses' princely purple is a true amethyst, and the peeresses' crimson is distinctly richer and softer than the theatrical crimson used at the last Coronation.

RISE IN RICE PRICES

At the end of last year, there was a drop in the price of rice but, it did not appear to affect local prices to any great extent.

During these few days, however, the local prices of rice have had an upward tendency, due it is said to the increase in freight rates. Again, the local stocks of rice have been greatly reduced through the export of over 3,000 tons to Peru.

In the opinion of rice merchants, a slight increase in the freight rates cannot affect prices to any serious extent, the real danger being the diminishing of local stocks by wholesale export to other countries.

However, it is believed that when new shipments of rice arrive, local prices will drop to their former level.

WEEK-END SPORT REVIEW

The biggest threat to the Indians is H. Owen Hughes, both in batting and bowling, for if he is allowed to get going, then I am very much afraid it will be a sad story for the Sookunoo team who not only do not like, but actually cannot play slow bowling. R. D. Gillespie may make some runs and also T. E. Pearce but he also does not like slow and may find A. R. Minu and A. H. Madar too much to cope with. A. C. I. Bowker and R. L. Holden the Club speed merchants, will not, I think, prove of much danger to the I.R.C. bats, and if one of them gets going at all, I am inclined to think it will be the former Colony fast bowler as Holden, despite a season with the first eleven, is still somewhat raw.

There will be three men in the I.R.C. side who will be playing their first senior League game of the season, namely A. A. Rumjahn, J. S. Abdul-Currem and F. M. el Arcull. They have all had considerable experience in First Division cricket and while the first named has not had much cricket for a couple of years, Abdul-Currem and Arcull have been figuring with considerable success in the Second Division and it is because of the consistent form they have shown that they are in today's side.

In his three matches in recent weeks, Arthur Rumjahn has shown that he is still a very useful man with the bat and I will not be at all surprised to see him come off with a useful score to-day. He is, in addition, a very useful, slow bowler and an excellent field.

It will be a great game and may the better team win!

Football

(By JAY MARTIN)

Unless a better understanding is going to exist between the Hong Kong Football Association and the South China Association, complications similar to those prevailing during the Chinese New Year, when the Shanghai Interport team was in the Colony, will be experienced as a result of an invitation being extended by the latter body to the Islington Corinthians to tour the Far East in February next year. There are two sides to the question, and the South China Association have presented theirs by pointing out that the visit was arranged for the Chinese New Year in order that they might draw a capacity gate in lieu of the guarantee which they were unable to give the Corinthians. But then, the South China Association have intimated to the local "football powers" that they intend to ask the Hong Kong Football Association to release all Chinese players from the Hong Kong Interport team which will visit Shanghai next year.

On the other hand, the F. A. feel that such a time-honoured annual event as the Interport should not be postponed to another date. There are strong arguments in favour of this point, but the main one which has to be considered is that at no other time in the year civilian players, whether of Shanghai or Hong Kong, are able to obtain a sufficient leave of absence from their work to enable them to participate in this Interport match. The South China Association have provided an awkward situation which must be smoothed out by the Hong Kong Football Association with the greatest of diplomacy and tact. There is a way out of this and the sooner these two Associations come to an amicable understanding the less chances there will be for a real dispute between these two organisations.

LETHARGIC OFFICIALS

At the same meeting in which the Islington Corinthians subject came up for discussion, it was revealed that no effort was made by responsible officials of the Hong Kong Football Association to approach Stanley Gash, the Shanghai manager, when he was here, regarding the revision of the Interport rules. The visitor had been fully empowered by the Northern F.A. to go into the matter and it was only natural that he could not be expected to make the first case, the civilian team should give the Navy a good run for their two points.

The lethargic and nonchalant attitude of the Hong Kong Football Association was certainly deplorable in view of the fact that a special sub-committee had been appointed by it to go into the question of the revision of the Interport rules with the Shanghai representative in order to avoid the necessity, and inconvenience of arranging it by correspondence. However, the local sub-committee apparently forgot all about its job when the opportunity was presented.

WEEK-END SCHEDULE

Several important games are scheduled for this week-end, which, besides two First Division fixtures, include matches in the Shield competitions.

Recrelo will be fielding their best team against South China "A" in their Senior Shield encounter. The Portuguese gave a very good account of themselves last week when they easily vanquished the Eastern in a First League fixture and revealed a smooth-working machine. Recrelo will stand out to-day as an unknown quantity to South China "A" in their new strength and the final result of this match will be a toss-up between the two teams.

The Fusiliers are pitted against South China "B" in the Senior Shield and this encounter, which is to take place to-morrow, will, no doubt, be the "high-light" of this week's football. The Chinese appear to be in the advantage but the Welsh will be quite capable of providing them with a close game. Still, South China "B" should succeed in eliminating their rivals to-morrow.

SENIOR DIVISION

In the first of two Senior Division games scheduled for this week-end, the Navy will be "at home" to the Club. I have the greatest faith in the sailors and, in view of their ranks having been strengthened by the presence of several additional ships in port, there is no reason why they should not come off, "top best" in this match, unless, of course, the Club return to first-class form. In any

The other First League fixture is the encounter between St. Joseph's and the Police. Although the latter sprang a surprise over the Kowloonites last week, their form did not impress me as being capable to deal similarly with the Saints to-morrow. St. Joseph's revealed good form in their fixture last week-end when they shared points with South China "B" and they should, therefore, be expected to deal easily with the Police to-morrow.

MASTODON SKELETON FOR TIENTSIN

Million-Year-Old Mammal For Museum

Skeleton of a huge elephant-like mammal that roamed north China perhaps a million years ago is now being assembled in the Huang Ho Pai Ho museum at the Hautes Etudes on Race Course Road, Tientsin. This newest exhibit has the name of Stegedon and is believed to have lived at the end of the Tertiary period, before man, as such, came into existence. The skull, tusks and neck are already on display. It is expected to take two months to erect the entire body, says the "North China Star."

The specimen, when completed, will be the only one of its kind in the world, revealing the complete skeletal framework of a beast which was heretofore known only by its teeth. The scientific prize was found by Father E. Licent, director of the museum, on his expeditions in the summer of 1934 in central Shansi.

The bones were scattered along a certain level in sand 80 feet below the surface level of the loess, which was an aeolian deposit of the Quaternary period. The sand, which is now solidified, was laid down previously by the flow of water. According to geologists, the Stegedon lived when a more tropical climate prevailed in this area.

Like elephants to-day, it was herbivorous, inhabiting marsh lands and using its great tusks, which measure almost ten feet, to excavate for plants and roots in the mud. Since the preserved tusks are so long, the beast must have had a trunk of equal length to convey food to its mouth.

TUSKS CRACKED
Height from ground to top of head would normally be 18 feet, which is several feet higher than any elephant's grows now. Since the ceiling of the main room at the museum is not that high, it has been decided to show the animal in the act of charging, with its head lowered to the level of the back bone, which is 12 feet high.

Although the complete skeleton was not found, enough of the bones to represent all parts were recovered, so that the remaining ones can be duplicated with papier mache. Both tusks were discovered, with their roots of 30 centimetres. They are cracked so that it was necessary to support them with metal shafts suspended from the ceiling. Iron rods will also be used to hold up the body.

From end of tusks to tail the huge relic will be more than 24 feet in length. This includes skull of 3 feet 3 inches, neck of almost two feet, and spine of nine feet. Three vertebrae are available and from them the others will be modelled. The neck is complete, with seven vertebrae. Weight of the bones is abnormal, for during their centuries, of burial they were penetrated by minerals. The jaw alone weighs 106 pounds now and each tusk tips the scales at 173 pounds.

Other authentic parts of the mastodon in possession of the museum include one femur, one lower arm, three of the four feet, four ribs, one shoulder blade, one collar bone and half of the pelvis. A humerus or upper leg is available from a kin species, and it is hoped that more ribs will be unearthed.

RECONSTRUCTED FROM PARTS
From all of these parts it is possible to make an authorized representation of the mammoth creature. It took two weeks to reconstruct the skull from the fragments obtainable, using papier mache and glue to fill in where the bones were lacking.

It is not known whether the specimen was male or female, since the pelvis was not complete and joined together. But there is no doubt about it being genus Stegedon, of the Mastodon group, which was an ancestor of the Mammoth, the large elephant-like beast appearing at the time of early man.

Paleontology is not the only field of science represented in the museum, for in addition to many fossils there are countless other exhibits covering the natural history of the basin of the Gulf of Chihli. Father Licent came to China in 1914 to begin the field work that has taken him into the farthest corners of north China. In 1922 his collections were housed in the present building, and in 1927 it was opened to the public, although there are many more specimens in private storerooms for the use of qualified scientists in their studies.

Most of the museum staff are members of the Jesuit Society, and all are experts in their own lines of research.

Co-operation For Defence

Sir Samuel Hoare, First Lord of the Admiralty, spoke at the annual dinner of the Bradford Chamber of Commerce, states the "Times."

It was a significant fact, he said, and a fact that had not been sufficiently emphasized, that upon all the great issues of the last 20 years there had been in the British Commonwealth of Nations a common outlook that had led, first, to the will to co-operate, and, secondly, to united action. It was this common outlook that they must do their utmost to foster and expand. Let it spread from the Empire to the world at large and enable the League of Nations of the future to speak and act with a unanimity that had hitherto been impossible. He suggested two directions in which the Empire must concentrate these efforts. They must concentrate upon the field of economic development, and they must concentrate upon the field of imperial defence. These two fields were closely connected, for, unless they did their utmost to foster the economic development of the Empire, the units that composed it would not be economically rich enough to take their full share of Empire responsibilities. There, in a sentence, was the chief justification of Imperial Preference. There was no wish to be exclusive and un-neighbourly to other countries, or to create what was now called economic autarchy; but they must help each other, if each was to take his full share of Imperial responsibilities, and particularly of the very heavy responsibility of Imperial defence.

At present the chief burden of defence fell on our shoulders in Great Britain. It was a very heavy burden, but, anxious as they were to lighten it, they would make a grave mistake if they tried to impose some rigid plan upon the other members of the Empire. They must rather tell them the position, and there would be the opportunity in three months time at the Imperial Conference, and leave it to them to decide how far they were prepared or able to co-operate.

NAVAL MOBILITY

Now that he was First Lord he kept constantly in mind the need of naval mobility. This was the reason why the creation of the naval base at Singapore was essential to our security. It must be possible for the Fleet to maintain its mobility in the Pacific and the Indian Oceans. Because the Singapore base would insure the mobility of British sea power in the East, its completion—now, he was glad to think, well within sight—would be of immeasurable value to Australia, New Zealand, and India. It was intended that Singapore should be the most up-to-date naval base in the world, a base that was essential for the Fleet's mobility, and was aimed at no country in any continent.

"So far as the Navy is concerned (Sir Samuel Hoare went on to say) we are virtually building a new Fleet, and we are building a new Fleet when the cost of ships has doubled or trebled since the days before the War. We intend to complete the task. Let there be no doubt in the minds of foreign countries as to the progress of our programme. We can still build ships better and stronger and quicker than any other country in the world, and these ships will once again confirm the influence of British sea power."

Sir Stephen Demetriadi, president of the London Chamber of Commerce, speaking at the same dinner, said that there could be no prosperity to the British Empire, and no future agreeable to contemplate for any of them, unless the unrest, everywhere apparent to-day, could be allayed. It was being increasingly recognized that that unrest was, at bottom, due to economic causes, and it was therefore a matter with which business men were intimately and profoundly concerned. It was not a problem of production; it was a problem of distribution. When it was solved then would a new age have opened—an age of good will between men and between nations—but so long as they refused to face it, so long had they no right to claim or to expect peace on earth.

"A Flying Laboratory"

"A flying laboratory" for the development and testing of several major airline projects has been established in California, U.S.A. by United Air Lines, according to W. A. Patterson, president of the line. One of the company's twin-engine aircraft has been withdrawn from passenger service, placed at the disposal of the company's technical department and equipped as an aerial "house of magic."

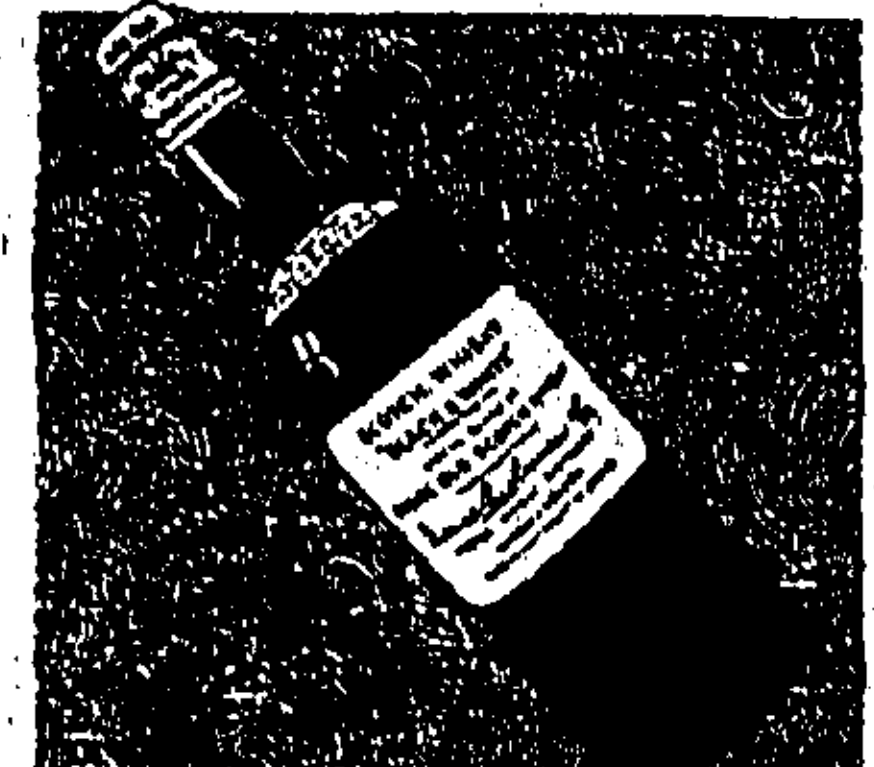

Research engineers are already using the "flying laboratory" to perfect the radio-instrument landing system now in the experimental stage and a number of developments have been assigned to it by the United's engineering department.

An auxiliary system of electric power, destined to provide airlines with a supply of 110-volt alternating current identical to that used in homes for lighting and other electrical purposes, is shortly to be tested aloft in the aerial laboratory. It is planned to install this new type "turbo-alternator" on regular transport planes to allow use of such electrical devices as cooking appliances, household-type reading lights, electric shavers, radios, dictaphones and similar accessories, the general use of which on present planes has been blocked by limited electrical supply.

Another important development which may be tested on United's research plane will be a system of plane-to-ground telephone communications for passenger use similar to the ship-to-shore phone service now being offered trans-oceanic travellers. Present planes are equipped with radio-telephone facilities for pilot-to-airport voice communication, but this system is not available for air passengers.

In the past, United Air Lines has temporarily assigned regular planes to its technical department for short periods to permit aerial testing of new projects. Patterson said, "However, our research engineers have a number of important projects in process of development which warrant a permanent 'flying laboratory' to insure their uninterrupted completion. United will place its flying laboratory at the disposal of other airlines so all may benefit from the special plane."

U.S. PLANS TO CHECK FOREIGN INVESTORS

Tax On Dividend May Be Doubled

President Roosevelt's chief financial advisers met in Washington recently for the first of a series of conferences at which a programme will be evolved to control foreign investments in the United States, states the "Daily Telegraph". These are now estimated at £1,500,000,000.

These investments and the continued inflow of gold have been a source of anxiety to the Administration for some months past.

Fears have been expressed that, unless appropriate steps are taken, the country's credit system will be in danger of being severely shaken if sudden and wholesale withdrawals of capital are provoked by a crisis in Europe.

WEEKS OF STUDY
The meeting to consider plans for the control of foreign investments took place at the Treasury, and was attended by Mr. Henry Morgenthau, Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Marshall Eccles, Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, and Mr. James Landis, Chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission. It followed weeks of careful study by Government experts.

RUBBER QUOTAS

London, Mar. 4. By a Protocol amending the 1934 agreement between France, Britain, India, Holland and Siam regulating the production and export of rubber, signed on February 5 and published to-night, Article 4-A of the agreement is amended as follows:—"Netherlands India: 1936, 500,000 tons; 1937, 520,000 tons; 1938, 540,000 tons." The Protocol is now in force.

British Wireless.

No details regarding the proposals under consideration were revealed, although in some quarters it was suggested that the present tax of 10 per cent. on dividends paid to foreign investors might be doubled to curb such investment.

Mr. Francis Carvan, President of the Clerical Foundation, said that Britain could undermine the American securities market by ordering the liquidation of American stocks held by British subjects. He revealed that 20 per cent. of shares on the American market were held by British subjects.

Panic would break out if these holdings were dumped on the market.

Mr. Morgenthau stated after the meeting that he personally opposed any form of control as a solution of the problem to prevent foreign investments from getting out of hand, but he thought that some form of control would be agreed on at subsequent meetings.

LATEST MOTOR CAR MODELS

Wallace Harper's
Display

A special preview of new models of 1937 Ford cars was given to Pressmen by Messrs. Wallace Harper and Co., Ltd., in their Nathan Road showroom last night. These models, which ranged from the Lincoln Zephyr V-12 to the Ford V-8 Standard, presented a new departure from last year's models, several new innovations being featured in every model.

Of special interest was the Lincoln Zephyr V-12 brougham, with body by "Brunn," which was specially built to the order of Mr. Loke Yuen Lok. This car, which is a very highly priced one, presented every new phase of the last word in travel comfort. The engine, which was in itself a tribute to the people who designed it, is of 48.8 horse-power, S.A.E. rating, developing 150 horse-power, and is heat-controlled by means of the engine bonnet shutters which are regulated by a thermostatic automaton. Several special innovations have been put into this car at the owner's request, including elaborate interior fittings and a telephone apparatus which is to be operated merely by the press of a button.

Another progressive development in the models is to be found in the Ford V-8 Club Coupe in which the "dicky seats," instead of being exposed at the rear of the car, are built inside the hood so as to provide equal protection to its occupants. The makers have also gone a step further with the wind-screen as this car is equipped with a V-shaped type but having the advantage of being opened for ventilation as for the lesser types. The display is the first real "auto-show" to be held in the Colony and will be held to-day and to-morrow, to which the public is invited. Over a dozen displays will be exhibited in the spacious Nathan Road showroom and these will include Canadian and English made cars.

freight on the line, recommended to the Ministry of Railways to construct temporary harbour work at Laoyao in order to afford an egress for freight cargoes from districts served by the railway. It was proposed that a short line from Sinpu to Laoyao and a harbour to be named the Lienyun Harbour at the latter point should be constructed.

While approving the proposal, the Ministry instructed the railway administration to map out a comprehensive plan. This plan which was subsequently submitted and approved, required a total initial outlay of $1,250,000. Of this amount the railway administration raised $850,000 and the Ministry allotted $600,000.

Construction of the railway extension was begun on Aug. 5, 1932 and completed later, while harbour work was started on July 1, 1933 by the Netherlands Harbourworks Company whose tender was accepted. With several wharves completed the harbour has been available to freighters since Oct. 1, 1934, while the complete project was brought to an end only recently.

Forecasting the prosperity of the harbour in the future, there has been a boom in commerce and traffic since the beginning of construction work. The population which numbered formerly only several hundred households has now jumped to two thousand.

New Governor Of Edinburgh Castle

The King has appointed Lieutenant General Sir Charles John Cecil Grant, to be Governor of Edinburgh Castle in succession to General Sir Archibald R. Cameron. The announcement was made from the Scottish Office, and the appointment will take effect shortly.

The office of Governor of Edinburgh Castle, which was revived last year after having been in abeyance since 1860, is an honorary one and is held by the General Officer Commanding-in-Chief, Scottish Command, for the time being.

WEEK-END SPORT CANTON ROWING CLUB

Hockey

(BY R. H. B.)

The main attraction on the hockey programme for the week-end is the Interport match between Hong Kong and Macao, to be played at the latter port to-morrow at 4.30 p.m. The Colony team will be returning by the 3 a.m. boat on Monday. The Colony team is a strong combination with a speedy attack while the defence is sound with W. A. Reed, the brilliant Club and Interport pivot, leading the intermediate line. Guest and E. L. Gosano form the last line of defence. At the practice match on Thursday, the Colony team won but the game amply demonstrated the utter lack of finish on the part of the H.K. team's attack. Their movements were good up to the point of finishing when in their opponents' dees. Last year, Macao won at King's Park, while in 1935, the Colony team were victorious in the Portuguese Colony. The match is of special interest as it will be the last that Lieut. F. da Costa, the "father of Macao hockey" will witness before he departs for Portugal for good.

It seems of real pity that he is going and in passing I would like to pay personal tribute to Lieut. da Costa. What he has done for the growth and improvement of hockey in Macao is wonderful and he will be long remembered as an outstanding personality in the Interport contests between the two Colonies.

The Caer Clark Cup series concluded on Saturday last when the H.K. Ladies Hockey Club defeated St. Andrew's Club Ladies by two goals to one to annex the Southern Trophy for runners-up position, the championship having been won by the Y. Ladies. It was a scrappy game and not up to the standard that was expected. The H.K. Ladies were runners-up last year to the C.B.A. Ladies and for six years previous to 1935 were the holders of the Caer Clark Cup. The Saints Ladies have won the Southern Trophy on no less than four occasions since the inception of the tournament.

By defeating the Royal Engineers on Thursday afternoon, the Central British Association men's team, which has done extraordinarily well this season, won the "A" Division championship in the Mamak hockey tournament. They will meet the winners of the "B" division to decide the final and their opponents will probably be either the Argonauts or the Radio Sports Club. The C.B.A. have an undefeated record and their goal average too is remarkable. Most of the goals have been netted by George Fowler and his brother, Sydney, Norman Whitley, the C.B.A. pivot, is leaving for Home to-day, on leave, aboard the ss. Nalders and will not be back again until the end of the year.

The Brawn Cup junior league for ladies is drawing to a close and there is every indication to point to the C.B.S. "A" team winning the championship. To date, they have not yet been beaten and they have a really good record and their goal average is brilliant. The card for this afternoon contains three matches. The C.B.S. "B" meet the H.K. Ladies on the School ground, Argyle Street, at 3.15 p.m.; the Y. Ladies will be opposed to the Royal Welch Fusiliers Ladies at King's Park at 2.45 p.m. while on the home ground at King's Park, the C.B.A. Ladies will meet the Diocesan Girls School.

Rugby Football

The preliminary rounds of the Seven-a-Side Tournament, which

The Club is under the distinguished patronage of H.M. Consul-General Mr. A. P. Blunt, and a strong committee has been formed to organise the events and look after the comfort of spectators and oarsmen.

The course lies within the Harbour Limits, and runs from the uncompleted bridge to a point a little below the end of Belcher's Island, the bridge having interfered slightly with the old regatta course. It is hoped to have a programme of ten races including a race for International fours, a Veterans Interport Race, and six other interport events. The first race is set for 2 o'clock, and a service of launches will be available to convey spectators from Shamen to points of vantage at the finish and along the course. Spectators will be the guests of the Canton Rowing Club at tea, and in the evening a dinner is to be held for the visiting oarsmen and officials.

Visitors from Hong Kong are assured of a warm welcome, and the Canton Rowing Club hope that as many as possible will make the trip. There is certain to be some keen racing, and Canton is determined to make its Centenary Regatta something quite out of the ordinary.

In this connection it is interesting to note that the founder of "The Hong Kong Daily Press," Mr. Y. J. Murrow, was one of the earliest British pioneers in Canton where he arrived in 1837. Mr. Murrow was a very keen sportsman, and he was keenly interested in the Canton Rowing Club.—The Editor.

is being held by the Hong Kong Football Club on their ground at Happy Valley in aid of Service and Civilian Charities, took place on Monday and Wednesday this week, with the result that eight teams are now left in to fight out the final rounds, which commence at 3 p.m. to-day as follows:—

3 p.m.—R.W.F. "A" v. Club "B".
3.20 p.m.—R.A.M.C. v. R.W.F. "D".
3.40 p.m.—B. & S. v. R.W.F. "B".

4 p.m.—Navy "B" v. Club "A".
His Excellency The Governor has signified his intention of being present and has kindly consented to present the Shield to the winning team at the conclusion of the tournament.

By kind permission of Lt. Col. H. M. Barchard, the band of the Royal Welch Fusiliers will be in attendance. The band will play before the matches commence and also at the intervals between the third round, semi-finals and final. Between the semi-final and the final, a game of "sack-rugger" will be organised. All and sundry will be invited to join in. All that has to be done is to get into a sack and endeavour to score a try for your side by placing the ball in the opposing side's tub. The tubs will be about thirty yards apart. Numbers on each side will be equal but unlimited and Rugby Union and not Queensbury rules will apply. It is hoped that all athletic spectators, and also players who have been eliminated in the earlier rounds of the Tournament will join in the game and provide amusement for themselves and for the more sedentary spectators during the necessary interval.

An amusing and varied afternoon's sport will be witnessed by all who turn up at the Valley, and as proceeds are ear-marked for charity, it is hoped that the crowd will be large. Admission to the covered stand will be one dollar and to the open stands fifty cents, with service men in uniform at half-price.
